Tehran Top Secret: Tehran Conference J V Chamberlin
November 28, 1943. The three great powers met in Tehran, Iran to discuss the next steps for WWII in Europe. The Germans had been contained in a controlled retreat since the loss of Stalingrad in January 1943. Now was the time to strategize for the total defeat of Germany; the planning of Project Overlord, and the southern invasion of France. The Conference at Tehran was preceded by two pivotal meetings led by Harry Hopkins, special envoy of Roosevelt, in Moscow and later Cairo. Unclassified now, the Tehran Papers are the Official US Record of the Tehran Conference. Imaged in their original form, these 18 parts contain minutes, reports, documents and agreements of the Big Three. Also included are excerpts from the previous meetings and special Message Traffic to the US Embassy in Moscow detailing matters of government, the military, policy initiatives and worldwide response to those actions. Unaltered and unedited, these Tehran Papers show critical decisions made at a pivotal time of WWII. They set the stage for the battle in Europe that was to follow. This book is a collection of the Tehran Papers: Tehran Top Secret is a presentation of the original documents, unedited and without commentary.
