Evolving a new model of Health Care Evaluation in India Dipayan Chowdhury
Research Paper from the year 2015 in the subject Law - Penology, Symbiosis International University (Symbiosis Law School), language: English, abstract: This book has been written primarily with the intention of navigating an appropriate judicial pathway for intervention into the intersecting spheres of medicine and law, and, thereby, to give strength to the voice of common concerns from a public interest standpoint that are otherwise ignored by the existing Legislative structures. The study as contained in this book is specifically in the context of a recent judgment delivered by the Indian Supreme Court, Doctor Balram Prasad vs. Doctor Kunal Saha & Ors., popularly nicknamed as the 'Anuradha Saha judgment', where an astounding 770 million rupees compensation had been awarded to the claimant of the suit, on account of the extraordinary damages suffered by the victim, the claimant's wife and the protagonist of the study herself, Anuradha Saha. The study has been presented before at the International Conference on Comparative Law and Development held in the Indian Society of International Law and organized by the Faculty of Law, Delhi University on the 22nd of March, 2014, and had received a wide reception. The author is presently a student of law at the Symbiosis Law School in Pune, India, and has only recently completed an internship under the aegis of the 2014 'L'Ordre national du Mérite' winner, Senior Supreme Court Advocate-on-record & current Additional Solicitor General of India, Mrs. Pinky Anand, as well as a brief period of voluntary service at the Nirmal Hriday Hospice (or Home for the Dying) Branch of the Missionaries of Charity in Kalighat, Kolkata.
